Comic Book Film

The main character(s) has its origins in a comic book, graphic novel, or serialized comic strip published in the US or Europe.

The film's specific story, production design, and/or interpretation of the characters were based on a specific comic book or graphic novel. Ex. 300, Hercules (2014)

The character(s) did not originate in: novels, non-serialized comic strips, Japanese Manga, mythology or folklore. Though it could still count as a superhero movie (see below).

The story is set in the real world and has a heavy focus on comic books, comic book culture, or comic book characters i.e. documentaries.

Superhero Film

The film contains several of these factors:

The protagonist originated in a comic book or graphic novel.

The hero has powers, abilities, or gadgets beyond normal human capabilities, i.e. superpowers.

The hero wears a costume and/or has a hero identity that is separate from his regular identity. Ex. Batman/Bruce Wayne

The film takes place in the modern day or the near future. Ex. Judge Dredd

The hero and/or villain are very theatrical in their heroics and/or crimes.
